The Berkshire Museum Camera Club will begin its 2009/2010 club year on Tuesday September 15th with a lecture by local photographer Mark Bowie. Mark is a frequent contributor to Adirondack Life and Adirondack Explorer magazines, and his work has been published nationally in Natural History, and by the Sierra Club, Conde Nast Publications, Portal Publications, and Tehabi Books. His first two books, Adirondack Waters: Spirit of the Mountains and In Stoddard's Footsteps: The Adirondacks Then & Now have become landmark regional publications.

Mark Bowie has wandered the Adirondack compass, meticulously capturing the glories and subtleties of each season. From intimate scenes to grand panoramas, accented with music and verse, this spectacular multimedia presentation showcases the region's wild beauty and diversity. Moving and heartfelt, it is truly a celebration of the Adirondack's magnificent seasons.

The Berkshire Museum Camera Club membership is open to all photographers. There is something for everyone from novice to expert. The Berkshire Museum Camera Club offers workshops and tutorials, guest speakers, and competitions.
